On Our Way Through Tradition

Freshman Year: Adoption Day
September 29, 1972

It seems as if it were yesterday... that juniors dressed like baby dolls from fairy tales adopted us and became our Big Sisters to guide us through thick and thin on our educational journey towards maturity.

Sophomore Year: Christmas Play

December 23, 1973

Bah...Humbug... The Christmas spirit really came alive with our production of Dickens' A CHRISTMAS CAROL. I understand Scrooge keeps the spirit in his heart all year round now--is that true Lana? (Lana played the role of Scrooge) We have Sister Evelyn to thank for the success of our three performances.

Arbor Day April 18, 1974

An important event in the spring of our Sophomore year was Arbor Day. Accompanied by a few guitars, we sang an enchanting adaptation of Doctor Zhivago's "Somewhere my Love" to our tree. Planting our flowering dogwood, deeply and firmly, we buried our fondest hopes and dreams for the future in a time capsule.

Junior Year: Junior Prom January 25, 1975

"Colour My World". Yes, that was the theme of our junior prom that echoes and re-echoes "dreams of our moments together..." It certainly was a "colourful" night. The soft lights, the exquisite dining, and the "hokey pokey" at the Mountain Laurel Restaurant provided for quite an amusing evening for all.

Ring Day February 1, 1975

Entering the junior year is embracing maturity with a certain joyful expectation. The event of the year is the receiving of our class rings. To the junior, a class ring is a symbol of personal pride and a memory of friendships, school traditions, and accomplishments. Dressed in colors of blue and white, we were the recipients of congratulatory messages and gifts. Our little sisters presented us with white tea roses tied with blue ribbon.

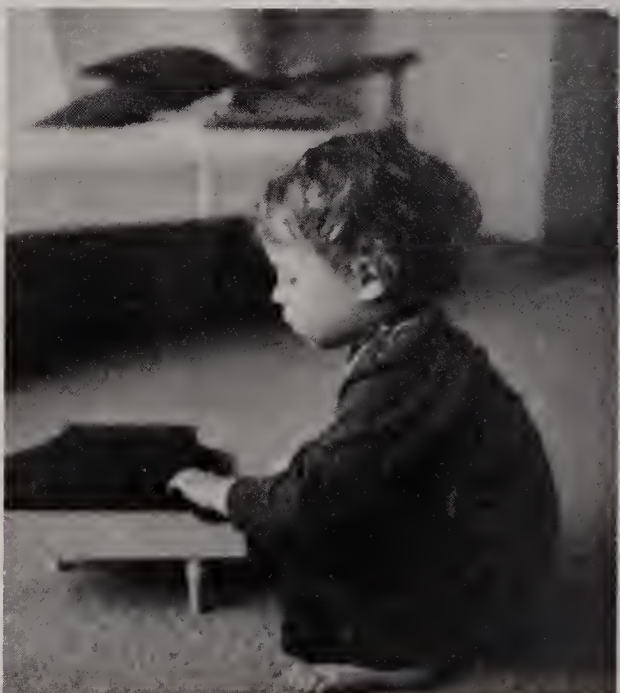

We shall always remember the Ring Day "get together" at Lana's home. We shall frequently reminisce the chicken dinner planned and prepared by our little sisters. Again, we shall ever smile at the humorous skits featuring T.V. commercials and game shows enacted by our little sisters.

Field Day May 29, 1975

The front campus was strewn with students. It's the annual Field Day at O.L.A. Hamburgers, hotdogs, grills, potato chips, soda, popsicles and whatever goes with an outdoor celebration! ...And you even got change back from your dollar! Games? You name it--we did it. Everything from bubble gum chewing contest to water balloon tosses--we even found ourselves running long, long yard dashes to and from the parking lot. The sun was with us all day, unless you were lucky enough to have a water balloon rain on you. It turned out to be a day of laughter and fun.
